BARDEHLE PAGENBERG

BARDEHLE PAGENBERG is one of the leading IP law firms in Europe and front runner at the Unified Patent Court (UPC) which has pooled the strengths and competences of patent attorneys and attorneys-at-law for more than 40 years, clearly setting itself apart from many other IP law firms.

The diverse client base appreciates the intense cooperation between attorneys-at-law – handling infringement cases before the UPC and the German civil courts through all instances on the one hand, and patent attorneys representing the client in proceedings before the Patent Offices and the Federal Patent Court on the other hand. We are also in a position to offer the invaluable input of our senior consultants who in their previous careers were leading German IP judges or members of the Boards of Appeal of the European Patent Office (EPO).

BARDEHLE PAGENBERG provides its clients with excellent services in all fields of Intellectual Property – from the first idea through to the launch, exploitation, enforcement and strategic management, particularly in the legal areas of patent law, trademark and design law, unfair competition law, antitrust law as well as licensing and technology transfer. To ensure processes of the highest standard, BARDEHLE PAGENBERG operates according to a quality management system compliant with ISO 9001 and regularly submits itself to audits for recertification purposes.

The full-service IP firm is regularly chosen by global companies which value its international availability and diverse team. Additionally, various German blue-chip companies and small and medium sized businesses, market leaders in niche technologies, entrust BARDEHLE PAGENBERG with their IP business.

DOCKET NAVIGATOR

Docket Navigator plays a pivotal role for litigants, attorneys and judges by organizing substantive court decisions into a single, efficient platform. By offering a comprehensive database of US patent litigation (including case filings, court orders, and attorney-written summaries), Docket Navigator gives instant access to information that would otherwise be buried across different sites in a sea of irrelevant cases. This level of organization not only streamlines research for legal professionals but, more importantly, opens up the judicial system to broader public consumption. With Docket Navigator, both litigators and the public alike can efficiently navigate through complex legal proceedings in a way that allows them to quickly analyze rulings, understand legal interpretations, and assess the reasoning behind specific decisions. Our platform champions the principles of openness, accountability, and informed decision-making within the legal community by demystifying complex proceedings and making them both accessible and understandable to users. Together, this transparency aids attorneys in crafting well-informed strategies tailored to their clients' cases. By staying abreast of relevant judicial outcomes, attorneys can anticipate potential legal challenges and provide realistic expectations to their clients

TENSEGRITY

Tensegrity Law Group was formed in 2011, when Matt Powers and a small group of partners and associates left Weil Gotshal & Manges with a simple yet powerful idea: to provide the same world class litigation services, but with fee structures that are in the interest of clients, reward results, and incentivize efficiency. Since then, we have grown significantly, attracting like-minded, entrepreneurial attorneys who want to function to the best of their ability, unconstrained by bureaucracy, politics, or unnecessary structure.

“Tensegrity” (ten-seg’-ri-tee) is an architectural concept in which a small number of elements are intelligently organized to create a structure embodying simplicity, balance, and strength.

We are known by clients, competitors, and independent observers as one of the truly top patent trial and appellate teams in the country. But while we love trying cases, our clients appreciate that our reputation and demonstrated skill often result in remarkable “eve of trial” resolutions that produce immediate value for our clients without delays or further appeals.
